Tribal Spotlight

When Downstream Casino was in the developing stages, one question posed was, "How are we going to decorate the casino and hotel?" There were many ideas suggested, but it was decided to incorporate not only family pictures of tribal members but also tribal artifacts, such as pottery, beadwork and clothing are on display.

These artifacts tell the story of the Quapaw people. Our pottery has been found all over the United States because the way they were made they were more valuable and made better trades. Each artifact in the casino depicts influence of different tribes or race of people that we encountered.

It tells a family history and at times is used during ceremonies. The artifacts bring aesthetic beauty to the casino and hotel but most of all they are reminders of who we are, proud Quapaw people.
