Tribal Spotlight

In spring time our elders tell us that it is a very important time of the year for their people. To the Quapaw people, these are signs that the world around us is coming back to life, signaling that we have made it through another winter.

In the Quapaw language, this time of year is referred to as pe-ta-de ("peh-TAH-deh") and the Quapaw people traditionally saw this time as marking the beginning of a new year.
