We looked at the toilet partitions for the Q Store a couple of weeks ago and we were looking at a blue color for the material. I have a piece of the blue accent tile that is in the restroom and it does not look good against the blue toilet partition. The colors are off a little too much and I do not believe that anyone will be happy with it. Does the DDA have a problem with using black toilet partitions like we have at the hotel and casino? I think the black will look good against the white tile and the blue accent tile, as well as the tan resinous floor.
